

See Alaska

The ferries of the Alaska Marine Highway travel a route so special it has been designated a National Scenic Byway.

Onboard our ships you'll find a casual atmosphere while enjoying non-stop views of spectacular scenery and wildlife along the way. Bring a car, RV or motorcycle and explore more than 30 coastal communities along our 3,500 mile route that stretches North through Alaska from our Southern gateway cities, Bellingham, Washington and Prince Rupert, British Columbia.

Many Alaska communities are accessible only by air or sea, and there's no better way to experience these diverse coastal regions than a trip on the Alaska State Ferry.

Southeast: The Inside Passage

Surrounded by the Tongass National Forest, Alaska's Inside Passage treats you to spectacular natural beauty, fjords filled with wildlife, lush islands, and a rich mixture of Native, early Russian, and Gold Rush history.

South Central: Prince William Sound & Kenai Peninsula

Home to over half of Alaska's population, four mountain ranges and numerous lakes, the central region is a wilderness playground. Enjoy world-class fishing, hiking and abundant wildlife viewing. Travelers can drive off the ferry and on to Anchorage, Denali & Fairbanks.

Southwest: Kodiak & the Aleutian Chain

From coastal grasslands to rumbling, snow-capped volcanoes, Southwest Alaska has a character all its own. Home to numerous national wildlife refuges, where brown bears amble and over 240 bird species inhabit the windswept Aleutian Islands that make a 1,000-mile sweep into the Pacific.
